FURTHER INFORMATION CONTINUED FROM PCT/ISA/ 203

The claimed invention involves a recording method and device for a multi-layer record carrier. The embodiments all refer to multi-layer recordable DVD (Digital Versatile Disc). No sufficiently detailed examples are given of how data is to be recorded on such a disc. The description only superficially describes structures such as "sessions", "fragments" and "hierarchical fragments". Detailed examples of these structures are completely missing. The DVD system is defined in non-public standards. No publicly available documents are known that specify how to record data on a multi-layer recordable DVD, in particular said structures.

Consequently, the description does not set forth any mode, let alone the best mode, for carrying out the claimed subject-matter relating to the recording method. Mutatis mutandis, the description does not set forth any mode, let alone the best mode, for carrying out the claimed subject-matter relating to the corresponding recording device. Hence, the application does not fulfill the requirements of Rule 5(a)(v) and Article 5 PCT. A meaningful search can not be carried out (Article 17(2)(a)(ii)).

The applicant's attention is drawn to the fact that claims relating to inventions in respect of which no international search report has been established need not be the subject of an international preliminary examination (Rule 66.1(e) PCT). The applicant is advised that the EPO policy when acting as an International Preliminary Examining Authority is normally not to carry out a preliminary examination on matter which has not been searched. This is the case irrespective of whether or not the claims are amended following receipt of the search report or during any Chapter II procedure. If the application proceeds into the regional phase before the EPO, the applicant is reminded that a search may be carried out during examination before the EPO (see EPO Guideline C-VI, 8.5), should the problems which led to the Article 17(2) declaration be overcome.
